ABOUT ME

Hello! My name is María Teresa González, and I am a biologist who has recently completed an advanced degree in web application development. In addition to my studies, I have experience in customer service in both English and Spanish, as well as in business administration. In the field of programming, I have a solid foundation in Java and have partially worked with Spring Boot. I have also trained in JavaScript, PHP, CSS, and Bootstrap. I consider myself a dynamic, persistent person with a great capacity for learning. I pursued this advanced degree to dedicate myself to programming, and to this day, I have thoroughly enjoyed everything I have learned.
